Edentech was established in 2005 to provide environmental management services to all sectors, expanding our services to include safety management and recruitment services for professional staff. Although many of our large clients are based in the civil contracting and mining sectors, we have always worked closely with small to medium enterprises.

As small business owners we are well placed to understand the constraints faced by SME's when trying to maintain compliance with regulated activities both at a local and state government level.

At Edentech, we strive to match our team to your project requirements. This model differs from most large consulting firms by allowing a greater degree of flexibility in resource use and staff placement to better meet individual client needs.

To deliver a well-matched team, our own qualified employees are regularly complimented by partnerships with a variety of consultants and contractors. We have many contacts across a broad range of disciplines allowing us to source the most appropriate people to meet specific needs.

Edentech has been involved in a wide range of successful projects, providing assistance in the areas of Environmental, Safety, Risk and Project Management as well as the provision of staff on both day-rate contract, and fee-for-placement basis.

Please contact us if we may assist you with your management needs.
